PEACE CELEBRATION.

As plans are now well under way for the holding of a peace celebration here on July 19th, and as this should be one of the most enthusiastic celebrations ever held in Redcliff, a special appeal is made to every man, woman and child in town to lend their hands and their assistance in making it a great success.

All are well aware that this occasion is to celebrate the signing of peace, the final step in the settling up of the great war which for four and a half years threw the whole civilized world into the greatest state of turmoil, suffering, sorrow, sacrifice and bloodshed in the history of the world. It is only fitting, therefore, that we should enter wholeheartedly into the spirit of the occasion and make the day one that will long remain green in the memory of our children.

The day should primarily be one for the children and in the carrying out of the plans this should not be lost sight of.

LOCAL RETAILERS.

We reprint the following from the Swift Current Herald:

Very few, possibly, take the time to consider the effect that the strike so prevalent at this time would have on smaller centres, separated by long distances from the great metropolitan centres, were it not for the local retailers. In the smaller cities and towns and in the territory tributary to them there is scarcely any inconvenience perceptible in the securing of supplies, despite the fact that there are tie-ups of one kind or another at many of the larger points.

"For instance, people who have been in the habit of sending away to the big catalogue stores for requirements have found such mail orders seriously handicapped through the labor troubles at Winnipeg, Toronto, Calgary, etc., and they have had to fall back upon the unfailing services rendered by the retailers of their own communities."

The Herald is absolutely right, and in this connection the Redcliff local retailers are no exception. All through the uncertainty of the recent strike turmoil our people in and around Redcliff experienced little or no inconvenience, and this was largely, if not altogether, due to the fore-sight and enterprise of our local merchants in seeing that their shelves were well stocked with the absolute necessities. In many cases this was done at considerable inconvenience and expense to them. In speaking further of the local merchants the Herald says:

"When trouble came and shortages were apparent they immediately put the agencies they control working at top speed to maintain a steady stream of supplies for the people they serve. The result was that while many of the larger centres were unable to run on normal lines, the outlying communities were being served bountifully and as economically as possible."

"This all goes to show the great convenience and necessity a local merchant is to any community. It is hoped these facts are not lost sight of and that these merchants are given the support and assistance they deserve."

WAS IT A VICTORY?

A few short months ago almost every newspaper in the British Isles was clamoring for the trial and punishment of the ex-Kaiser, as part of the peace terms. The cry was taken up by organizations of all kinds and so noisy did the general public get along this line that Lloyd George was forced to promise definitely that this would be done and he was forced to adopt this promise in his pre-election platform.

Now that the peace treaty is signed and by it the Bill is signed to lay hands on King Hohenzollern and bring him to answer for his many crimes, these same British papers and organizations are saying they don't want him tried, as he is down and out, has suffered enough, and that nothing is to be gained by punishing him further. Some papers in Canada are also talking along the same lines. At the same time Canadian soldiers are being court marshaled and punished for flare-ups in camp as a protest against mismanagement and delays in getting back home. Still we have heard of no papers or organizations coming to their rescue and advocating that they be let off on the grounds that they have suffered and sacrificed enough.

Can it be that the German propaganda is still at work and that the ex-Kaiser still has some friends in the seats of the mighty. If so the winning of the war was a great victory for democracy.

THE MOST IMPORTANT.

Andrew Carnegie was once asked which he considered to be the most important factor in industry—labor, capital or brains. The canny Scot replied with a merry twinkle in his eye, "Which is the most important leg of a three-legged stool?"

Isn't it becoming increasingly manifest that real understanding and co-operation must come as between all classes of the people in order that we may have real progress in the right development of society at large, and that our country may be made what it should be—a place where men can work out their destiny in some measure of real purpose.

The task of bringing about this condition is one which concerns every man in every walk of life.

Let us get at the job.

HORSE MARKET.

A bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture says: "The farmer who is not breeding and has lost faith in profits from horse rearing is not handling the right sort of horse. Choice draft mares and geldings are scarce, high priced and leave a good profit in rearing even during the slump in those values. Sound animals of this type are worth from $300 up per head in Canada. Some extra choice matched grade geldings have recently sold as high as $1,500 and $2,000 per pair. In Europe such animals are in demand at $500 to $1,000, and Canada has a great opportunity for an export trade in this choice quality draught horse."

The resignation of Sir Thomas White from the Dominion government leaves a vacancy which will be hard to fill at the present time. There never was a finance minister in Canada who has had such problems to face as has Sir Thomas, and yet there never has been a finance minister who has filled the position as successfully as has the same Sir Thomas.

Down south of the 49th parallel men are being sent to the correction house for profiteering. Over in Italy the king has decreed that profiteering is a criminal offence and punishable by imprisonment. Now all together on the chorus: "O. Can-ada, O. Can-ada."

It is said that "every dog has his day." Judging from the right-about-face attitude in labor circles in the west lately it is beginning to look as though the O. B. U. has had its day also. It was a short one but it surely was a merry one.

Italy appears to be setting the pace in getting after the profiteers. The king's latest decree would put profiteers in prison for three years. Pass a da banan and da spaget.

Chief of Police Cuddy of Calgary, has been appointed commissioner of the provincial police.

The King's Message
On Signing Peace

After news of the signing of peace had been received in London, the following was issued over King George's signature:

"The signing of the treaty of peace will be received with deep thankfulness throughout the British Empire. This formal act brings to its conclusion the terrible war which has devastated Europe and distracted the world. It manifests the victory of ideals, of freedom, and of liberty, for which we have made untold sacrifices."

"I share my people's joy and thanksgiving and earnestly hope and pray that may bring to us every increasing happiness and prosperity."

(Signed) GEORGE, R. I."

BIRD PROTECTION

"It is to be hoped that all parts of the Dominion will uphold the authorities in their enforcement of the new game Acts, if some are too short-sighted or selfish to deny the value a little for the general good. It is well to remind them that the laws are now based upon treaty, and as such form part of an international obligation which we at least do not intend to treat as a scrap of paper, and will enforce regardless of consequence to individuals."

This is to what the pamphlet "Vanishing and Vanishing," written for the purpose of familiarizing the public with the Migratory Birds Convention Act, its aims and workings, says in reference to the new laws for the protection of bird life in both Canada and the United States.

Should go Ahead

Says Thos. Edison

"Public officials everywhere should resume making permanent improvements and business men should go ahead promptly about their respective businesses," said Mr. Edison. "The business world is hungry for goods of all kinds. I notice that Mr. Stoddard, Marshall Field & Co., says December and January were the two biggest months in the history of the retail goods business. The purchasing power of the people is enormous, and they have absolute faith in the future. The only danger in the business man who thinks he is long-headed and hangs back when a thing is being too ahead and too close is barge."

"I wish street the man who tries to buy at the lowest point and sell at the highest usually gets left. It is the same way in business. Readjustments in prices are already in progress, but the man who lets his business run down at the head waiting for prices to reach their lowest level is likely to hear a great deal more than his good-will and even if he should happen to profit, Uncle Sam will take most of this extra profit in taxes, so the average man is pretty heavy against the business man who lets his business sag in order to gamble on better times."

"I believe in business prudence, but right now I think the most prudent thing a business man can do is to take after orders and buy the materials that he needs to fill them."

Canucks and Yanks

Bury the Hatchet

Wrapped in British and American colors a hatchet was buried with ceremony by 400 Maroons from Victoria, B. C., and Wellington last Sunday at English Camp, San Juan Island, the scene of complications which threatened war between Great Britain and the United States in 1859. As the hatchet was placed in the ground a stir bearing on its space a white dove, symbolizing peace, was raised over it.

For fifteen years the name of Francis Hendry has been the synonym for the best in lyceum and chautauqua entertainment. He combines the highest degree of artistic excellence with unusual versatility. He is unique among entertainers, for he is a humorist and impersonator, comedian and ballroom. Good wholesome fun is found in the Hendry Comedians "Something for everybody" is their motto. To add variety the band is used and some up-to-the-minute phonographs are presented.

Mrs. Francis Hendry is the pianist, organist, and talented woman well known in the chautauqua world for her artistic and satisfactory mastery of the piano.

They appear at the Chautauqua Monday, July 28th.

Suggestions For

Summer Fallowing

In answer to a letter written to the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lethbridge, asking for advice as to how to summer fallow in dry weather, the secretary of the Harvest Vale U. F. A. received the following which may be of interest to farmers in this district at the present time:

"With such extremely dry weather as we are having, all our cut and ried plans for cultural operations are upset. I note you say that summer fallow you have plowed is lumpy, the result of plowing it when it lacked moisture. I would not advise harrowing it until you have had moisture. Then after that, only use the cultivator when it is necessary to destroy weeds. After you have gone over a piece of summer fallow with the duckfoot cultivator, do not harrow. The pulverizer is not to leave the land slightly rougher and with more lumps at the surface than is in the harrow. This is desirable, for when it is slightly lumpy at the surface, soil drifting will not take place to nearly the same extent as where it is fine and powdery. In this connection, I would call your attention to the fact that when the soil is quite moist or wet, the harrow has a tendency to form these small lumps, but if harrowed when dry, it has a fuiling or powdering effect.

In regard to the best depth of seed, in summer fallow, we have found that grain should be put down into moisture (not to moisture but into moisture) this depth as you will appreciate varies with the different seasons. Should conditions be ideal at seeding and there is moisture practically right to the surface, we have found that two-inch seeding gives the most satisfactory results.

"I notice that you say that you are plowing eight inches deep. We have found in our experiments at the station that we do not gain anything by plowing deeper than this.

"I have hoped your enquiry as to the life history of pulversons and worms, comes to Mr. H. H. Strickland, a crop-meteorologist at this station, who no doubt will write you in the course of a day or two."

Yours sincerely,
W. H. FAIRBANKS,
Superintendent.

King George Doesn't
Cost Subjects a Cent

King George is able to retain his private fortune, though he does not cost the British taxpayers or colonial subjects a cent. He owes his present financial standing to the sagacity of his grandfather, the Prince Consort.

From the time of his marriage until the day of his death, the Prince Consort invested nearly every cent of his British civil list allowance of $150,000 a year in real estate in three university districts of South Kensington. Today it is one of the smartest and wealthiest quarters of the British metropolis and yields large revenues. The Prince Consort also established costly disinclination on his Balmoral estate in Scotland, which still remain a source of considerable profit to King George.

Queen Victoria, who lived well with, in her means, was also the recipient of a number of large bequests from military subjects, who had no legal heirs, and were led by patriotic sentiment to devise their estates to her. Much of her private fortune was left to her grandson, King George, and for his children.

On his accession to the throne King George turned over, for the term of his life, revenues of the crown property to the national treasury, in return for a civil list. The consequence is that the national treasury is considerably ahead by the transaction.

Wilson to Present

Terms to Senate

President Wilson on his return to the United States Monday brought with him the American draft of the German peace treaty and several proposals which he will present to the senate today. The German treaty makes 450 printed pages with French and English texts side by side. It differs in many respects from the original draft which was published in the United States, but in essentials it follows the original draft.

The president also has with them the treaty by which the United States promises to assist France if she is attacked by Germany, which he may present with the treaty and the message which he will read to congress. The message, which the president will read on board the 'George Washington, contains about 5,000 words and deals mainly with the general phase of war and peace.

The Dominion parliament, after running into the fifth month, was formally prorogued last Monday afternoon.

Rush of Soldiers

For Prairie Lands

Mr. W. J. Black, chairman of the Soldier Settlement Board, who has returned from a visit of inspection to the Western Provinces, stated that he found intense interest being taken in land settlement by returned soldiers.

Already throughout the Dominion there have been 17,100 applications for qualification certificates, and of these 12,994 have been passed as qualified to participate in the benefits of the Act.

"The heaviest rush of applicants is to the Western Provinces," said Mr. Black. "In one day alone 1,000 returned men visited the Edmonton office seeking information, and the usual run at present there is from 700 to 800 men a day. The organization of the board is being heavily taxed to provide the required service to meet this situation.

ITALY GETS AFTER THE PROFITERS.

King Victor Emmanuel of Italy has issued a decree that profiteers will be fined a decree that profiteers will be fined 10,000 lire or sentenced to from three months to three years in prison, and will in addition, suffer confiscation of the goods.

Unauthorized adulterers dealing in food will suffer similar punishment, it is said.

Ten million dollars was voted by the Dominion parliament for the construction of a vaccine in accordance with the shipbuilding program.

It is estimated that you say that you are plowing eight inches deep. We have found in our experiments at the station that we do not gain anything by plowing deeper than this.

"I have hoped your enquiry as to the life history of pulversons and worms, comes to Mr. H. H. Strickland, a crop-meteorologist at this station, who no doubt will write you in the course of a day or two."
